Three Die After Eating Home-Canned Sea Food

John D. Loves a Circus

Playing straight man to Prime Minister Diefenbaker at the CNE circus yesterday is clown Otto Griebling, who perched on the prime minister's knee. The P.M.'s executive assistant, Jim Nelson, looks on from the background.

Mr. Diefenbaker, who admits he has a chronic weakness for circuses, spent the day at the Toronto exhibition while his wife went shopping for items for her new home in Ottawa. (CP)

Salmon Eggs Blamed

PRINCE RUPERT (BC)—Three women are dead here after eating a meal Monday which included home-canned salmon eggs.

R.C.M.P. said autopsies have been performed on the first two victims and food samples have been sent to the R.C.M.P. laboratory in Regina for analysis. A joint inquest has been ordered for Sept. 5.

SAME FAMILY

Mrs. Nina Lund, 60, died Wednesday. Her daughters, Mrs. Anne Boser, 34, and Miss Lucinda D. Wesley, 36, both employees of a cannery, died Tuesday after they were taken to hospital.

A physician said he believed they died of botulism, a kind of food poisoning. It was the first such case ever reported here.

UNHEARD OF HERE

The chief sanitary inspector of Victoria, Esquimalt commented last night that the botulism was probably "manufactured" in the salmon eggs during the preserving process.

Elwood S. Gropp described the case as very unusual and unheard of in the Victoria area. He said he never had any knowledge of persons canning salmon eggs.

94 Persons Missing

Midnight Nightmare After Ships Collide

BUENOS AIRES (UP)—Argentine maritime police said officially last night that 94 persons were missing from the 203 passengers and crew members of the river steamer Ciudad de Buenos Aires, which sank in the River Platte estuary Tuesday night after it was rammed by the U.S. freighter Mormacsurf.

The Maritime Prefecture (coastal police) said the missing included 71 passengers and 23 crew members.

Survivors of the disaster said Capt. Silverio Brizuela and an engineer who heroically stayed below to prevent a boiler explosion were among crewmen who went down with the ship.

DOZENS SANK
Eighty-three of the survivors arrived here last night aboard the Argentine minesweeper Drummond.

They told of an Andrea Doria type nightmare in which dozens of passengers sank beneath the oil-covered waters after the two ships collided.

The collision occurred shortly before midnight at the head of the River Platte estuary, near the point where the Parana and Uruguay Rivers merge.

IN FIVE MINUTES

Crew members said the Ciudad de Buenos Aires sank within five minutes.

The Mormacsurf, captained by Kenneth Sommers of Marion County, Calif., near San Francisco, put into port here last night with a 10-foot gash in her bow section.

Argentine coast guardsmen prevented anyone from going aboard, including officials of the Moore-MacCormick Company and ordered the crew held incommunicado until an official investigation can be made.

HOLDS DRY

First mate Tod Briner of San Francisco said the American ship's holds, filled with wheat, were dry despite the collision damage.

An Argentine cabin steward reported Capt. Silverio Brizuela refused to leave his sinking ship.

Eighteen of the 230 passengers and crew on the Argentine vessel were injured.

FLYING BOAT

Sixteen were brought aboard an Argentine navy flying boat and taken to the navy hospital. Two seriously injured were taken to Nueva Palmira, Uruguay, together with a woman in an advanced state of pregnancy.

Cabin steward Eugenio Widrat said he was with Captain Brizuela at the time of the crash.

"When he saw there was no hope of saving the ship, he entered his cabin and locked himself up," Widrat said.

"A few moments later the Ciudad de Buenos Aires went down."

"I jumped overboard and swam in the darkness until I found a board and clung to it."

Emergency Action To Save Mines Urged by MPs

VANCOUVER (CP)—Eleven British Columbia Members of Parliament Wednesday wired Prime Minister Diefenbaker asking the federal government to take "emergency action" to keep base metal mines operating.

The telegram resulted from a meeting here between the MPs and representatives of International Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers (Ind.). The union sponsored the meeting and called on all B.C. MPs to attend. It reads: As there is serious danger of unemployment in industries because of depressed prices, the following B.C. MPs urge that the federal government be prepared to take emergency action to keep base metal mines open."

MPs signing the statement were: John Taylor and Ernest Broom, Conservatives; James Sinclair, Liberal; H. W. Herdridge, Alex MacDonald, Erhart Regier, and Harold Winch, CCF; Thomas Irwin, George McLeod, George Hahn, and Frank Christian, Social Credit.

BRITANNIA BEACH

In particular danger of closing is the Britannia Beach mine, 40 miles up the coast from here, where workers were told earlier they would have to take a 15-per-cent wage cut for the mine to keep operating.

Earlier, the union had asked the federal government to put a floor price on metals and to retaliate against any U.S. tariff restrictions on Canadian base metals.

Diplomat Turns Other Cheek

SINGAPORE, Malaya (UP)—Ceylonese Prime Minister Solomon W. Bandaranaike diplomatically turned the other cheek yesterday to U.S. ambassador-designate to Ceylon, Maxwell Gluck.

"I am not quite sure how to pronounce his name but anyway I am looking forward to meeting and welcoming him," quipped the prime minister at a news conference. His listeners roared with laughter.

Gluck's now famous admission that he did not know Bandaranaike's name was regarded as a diplomatic error. But both sides have taken it in good humor.

'End Deadlock Or We Strike'

Victoria milkmen last night fashioned an ultimatum to the city's four major dairies—"End the eight-month contract dispute in seven days or we strike."

The agree-or-else stand was taken by 165 driver-salesmen and plant employees of the four dairies at a meeting of Local 464, Milk Salesmen's and Dairy Employees' Union.

Union negotiators last week received a still-undisclosed offer by the companies. The negotiators found four major and 10 less important points in it they didn't like.

They brought 14 proposed changes before the general membership last night. These were endorsed, thus authorizing the committee to negotiate.

"Falling agreement in seven days, we are to take strike action," an official said.

The firm stand was taken because "it has gone on so long (negotiations began in January), and the men are fed up to teeth."

"Why, we've only got about four months to go until we have to start negotiating our next contract," he added.

Dairies affected, which control all but a trickle of Victoria's pasteurized milk supply, are Palm Dairies Ltd., Island Farms Co-operative Association, Shepherd's Dairy Ltd., and Northwestern Creamery Ltd.

The union wants a $30-a-month raise for driver-salesmen and $32.50 a month more for plant employees, without any curtailed delivery which the dairies say would inevitably have to follow.

Syria's New Strong Man Denies Being Communist

DAMASCUS, Syria (Reuters)—Maj.-Gen. Afifi Bizri, new chief-of-staff of the Syrian Army, said Wednesday he never has been a Communist.

Sipping Turkish coffee in his office at Syrian Army headquarters, the 43-year-old strong man of Syria said in an interview:

"I have never been a Communist, nor am I one now."

"Communism in the eyes of the West stretches to the extent of including even ardent nationalists.

"The Indian premier, Nehru, himself was once accused by the West of being a Communist."

"I'm not a Communist. Members of the Syrian Army are strictly forbidden from joining any political party whatsoever."

Bizri devoted the major part of his interview to the question of Syria's estranged relations with the United States.

Blindfolded Driver Suicides

CHICAGO (AP)—A 52-year-old woman committed suicide Wednesday by blindfolding herself and driving her car along a busy street, where she crashed into a sign, a stop light and gas station. The death of Mrs. Kathryn Dawson was listed by the coroner's office as an "automobile suicide."

One Miner Dies

I'll Be Late for Supper Tonight

KIRKLAND LAKE, Ont. (CP)—One miner died and another was rescued after being trapped for close to 12 hours Wednesday by tons of rock deep in a gold mine here.

The body of 38-year-old Jean Morrisette was brought out of the Teck-Hughes mine after a long battle by rescue crews to reach him.

Several hours before that he had talked to them and was given a shot of morphine in one hand to deaden his pain. He was heard anoring after the needle.

About an hour earlier the rescue crews had dug James Maxwell Parker, 65-year-old shift boss, free of the rocks which pinned his leg and arm to the wall of the mine 4,000 feet below the surface.

He was then taken to hospital in good condition and high spirits, but Dr. W. C. Rumble said he might have to undergo amputation of his feet, "although that's only a guess."

The two were trapped by a slide of muck-shale and rock—at about 10 a.m.

Bill Cochrane, who was working nearby, said he heard the fall of muck and "I saw a head, body and arm protruding out of the muck and then I saw the staging had fallen."

"Parker's legs were pinned to the wall and we had to block up the muck to prevent it from falling any more."

"I spoke to Max and he told me to get a doctor and lots of men. Then Morrisette yelled through the muck, 'Get me out, get me out!'"

"We gave Parker a thermos of hot tea and a doctor reached Morrisette's hand under Parker to give him a needle."

Mine Manager G. G. Gilchrist, who supervised the rescue work said Parker told him, "Tell my wife I'll be a little late for supper tonight."

ALL ABOARD

With G. E. Mortimore

While G. E. Mortimore is on holiday, some of his "All Aboard" columns are being reprinted. (Reprinted from April 18, 1956)

MANY a man has been spoiled by taking an intelligence test in a magazine and learning that he is a genius.

Outwardly he remains his old modest self, but deep inside he knows that he is too good for his wife, his job and his neighborhood. (His wife disqualifies herself by reading the answers before she read the test.)

The man gets more and more conceited, until everyone hates the sight of him.

When he is a homeless tramp squandering his last dollar in a seedy tavern, he confides to another homeless tramp across the table that he wasn't always like this.

"I could have gone a long way," he says. "I took an intelligence test in a magazine and found that I am a genius."

"Was that test in the April, 1956, issue of 'Leer' magazine?"

"Why, yes. How did you know?"

"Because I took that test myself. And you know something? I'm a genius myself. You see old Jake Jukes over there—the fellow who has gone to sleep with his ear in a coffee cup? He took the test in the same magazine, and he's a genius, too."

"It sure is a tough world, eh? Three of us geniuses, and we all wind up in the same crummy jail. Anyway, that should be good for a drink on the house."

Phifful scenes like that are enacted every day, as a result of the intelligence tests in the magazines. The tests are figured out so that everyone who takes them is a genius.

Another soul-destroying feature is the "test-your-marriage" gimmick, which shows that you and your mate are unsuited to one another. It debunks your choice of a spouse so thoroughly that it leaves you with a lingering doubt as to whether you really ARE married.

A lady in our neighborhood was unlucky enough to pick up a magazine with a formula for calculating how big a child is going to be when it grows up. (This is a true case.)

She took her little girl's height and multiplied it by something and divided it by something else, according to instructions.

Then she blinked with surprise and handed the thing over to the little girl's father. He got the same result. When the little girl is 21 years old, she is going to be 14 feet tall.

She is now four feet tall and growing fast. All of us are watching her with interest.

Hospital Seeks Delay

'Park Scheme For Parking'

Management of St. Joseph's hospital at any given time during the morning with facilities on hospital property limiting to handling only 25 to 30 doctors' cars. Most doctors cannot complete their work in hospital in two hours.

Officials pointed out that St. Joseph's has received a portion of the convent gardens at St. Ann's Academy for development as a parking area that should be ready in a "few months."

The project has been delayed because of difficulty in obtaining fill.

Two-hour parking restrictions effective yesterday have been ordered by city council on the following streets:

Cook, Fort to View; Cook, Meares to Rockland; Meares, Quadra to Cook; Vancouver, Rockland to Quadra; Quadra, Broughton to Blanshard; Blanshard, Burdett to Belleville; Humboldt, Rupert to Douglas; Collinson, Rupert to Burdett; all of Penwell; Burdett, Douglas to Quadra; Quadra, Pembroke to Cormorant; Caledonia, Quadra to Blanshard; North Park, Quadra to Blanshard; Chatham, Blanshard to Douglas; Herald, Douglas to Government; Yates and Fort, 250 feet east of Cook.

However, because no notice of the impending restrictions was given, hospital officials complained they had no opportunity to "outline the many difficulties this new zoning would create."

Problems faced by St. Joseph's under the new restrictions are:

More than 800 hospital employees, many of whom drive to work. Nearest off-street parking is near the Cathedral, where it is doubtful that so many cars could be handled.

Residents Spur Plan For Memorial Service

Spontaneous public support of a proposed Remembrance Day service for the first time in decades in Saanich has sparked the enthusiasm of Saanich council's parks committee.

Coun. Eugene Diespecker said yesterday that some 25 residents from all parts of the municipality "just showed up" Saturday at the Shelbourne Street "memorial core" after the committee announced it would inspect the site.

Asked if they would favor the municipality holding its own service at the core this year, the answer was unanimously affirmative, Coun. Diespecker said.

The group nominated three of their members to act as spokesmen, and they will meet parks committee Saturday afternoon.

Cmdr. L. J. Nairn, 44, of Victoria, has been appointed director of naval pay accounting at Ottawa.

He held supply posts on both coasts, and was recently command supply officer on the staff of the flag officer naval divisions, Hamilton, Ont.

Still Busy at 98

Ninety-eight and still going strong is the record set this week by Mrs. Ida Morrison, a resident of Fairfield Rest Home, 1471 Fairfield.

Born in Alisa Craig, Ont., only a year after the town was founded, Mrs. Morrison came to Victoria in 1928, when she was 69.

She keeps alert with a little reading, listening to the radio, writing letters to friends twice a day and collecting stamps which she sends to a friend in England. She is a long-time member of the Women's Missionary Society.

Mrs. Morrison has two children—Mrs. Will Pateman of Me-Auley, Man., and Will Morrison of White Rock, B.C.

Thieves made off with about $50 early yesterday in a break-in at Shepherd's Dairy, Ltd., 1645 Fort.

Detectives said entry was gained by a small front window, and the money taken from a cash drawer which the burglars forced open.

Closed Channel

Erection of steel beams and girders at the new Point Ellice bridge will result in a closure of the channel to all shipping between 8 a.m. and 5 p.m. Tuesday, the department of transport said yesterday.

The department urged that at all other times ships pass through slowly to avoid endangering crews of workmen putting in the steel work.

U.S. MISSILE FIRED

While a bit more light, or propaganda, was shed on the

And at the joint British-Australian rocket range at Woomera, Australia, scientists were reported installing special equipment along a 1,200-mile path for tests soon of a British missile.

FALSE HOPES

The U.S. missile took off in a burst of flame amid false reports the country had finally matched Russia's claim that startled the world Monday. The U.S. has no successfully-fired inter-continental ballistic missile. The Atlas exploded 5,000 feet above the ocean in its first firing June 11 at the rocket site.

Only the standard news release stating that a firing had taken place was given out. The test was termed another "in our test series."

Mate Saves Boy

Prompt action by the mate of a Victoria tug Tuesday saved the life of a seven-year-old Brentwood boy.

Brian Cameron, Benvenuto Road, was playing on the wharf of the B.C. Cement Co. in Tod Inlet, where Victoria Tug Company's "Strath" was moored. Suddenly the boy lost his footing and fell into the water.

Lorne Bowden, mate of the "Strath," saw the mishap, and when the boy didn't come to the surface Bowden jumped into the water and pulled him out, according to Capt. Stanley Fraser Jr., of the Victoria Tug Co.

Brian stayed aboard the tug for a while before a young friend took him home.

Bennett Tours Battleground On Business

By PETER BRUTON

WHEN A PREMIER IS NOT A PREMIER: Premier Bennett has taken great pains to forestall any opposition criticism which might be made as a result of his electioneering in Cariboo's by-election this week.

It so happens that the premier, who is president of the PGE, decided to see how construction was proceeding on the government railway, much of which runs through the Cariboo riding.

A directors' meeting was held on the train, thus justifying the trip on the grounds of government business.

The premier is returning to the Coast, however, by a hired car. And because he's paying for the car himself, he is stopping off at Quesnel and Williams Lake to make a couple of election speeches.

It reminded reporters of the inaugural PGE trip from North Vancouver to Prince George a year ago. At that time the premier and cabinet ministers made speeches at just about every whistle stop on the trip. But Premier Bennett said these speeches had nothing to do with the provincial election which had just been called.

"You've got to separate government business and politicking," he frequently told newsmen. But sometimes it was hard to see just where the division occurred.

For What It's Worth

SIDE BY SIDE: It's strictly a piece of incidental intelligence but Finlayson and Laing run parallel in Victoria.

But there's been no merger of provincial Liberals and Conservatives—Finlayson and Laing are streets, running parallel off Cedar Hill Road.

GONE BUT NOT FORGOTTEN: Provincial mines department this week sent out press releases on coal production to reporters who regularly staff the legislative press gallery.

The releases were addressed to five reporters who have long since been replaced. All have been gone for more than two years.

HEARING AID: Treasury department installed a new cashier's wicket recently and had a sheet of bullet-proof glass put into stop the teller being shot if a holdup man happened to try his chances of obtaining some of the taxpayer's money.

The glass was such an effective shield that the cashier couldn't hear the voice of a person on the other side. A loudspeaker has now been installed and the cashier is still perfectly safe.

Best Foot Forward

PRESSURED IMPRESSIONS: Social Credit backbenchers have been jockeying for position for the past few months, hoping they will get the nod from Premier Bennett for a cabinet post.

The premier has promised that he will appoint a full-time agriculture minister before the next session, a job he himself has been holding down since the death of Ralph Chetwynd.

Another job going is that

'Red Hilde' Gets Tough

BERLIN (UP)—East German justice minister "Red Hilde" Benjamin has ordered Berlin's Communist zone judges to revise all recent political sentences on grounds some were too lenient, the justice ministry organ "New Justice" said Wednesday.

"Judges must evaluate proof not only in a formal and logical manner but also in regard of the party," the Communist organ said.

Education Act Revision Likely

A revised B.C. education act will likely be submitted for approval of the provincial legislature at the session early next year, Education Minister Leslie R. Peterson said yesterday.

He said many officials regarded the present 176-section act too cumbersome and that it would probably be cut in size.

Fire of unknown origin swept ranch-style home of Maj. G. A. Wiggan early yesterday at 1840 Ferndale, Gordon Head, leaving it a charred ruin.

$20,000 House Burns, Cause Still Unknown

Saanich firemen were still without clues last night on the cause of two house fires earlier in the day, one of which virtually destroyed a $20,000 home in Gordon Head.

Left in charred ruins was the ranch-style home of Maj. and Mrs. George A. Wiggan, 1840 Ferndale.

Neighbors saw flames licking up through the house and telephoned in an alarm at 2:33 a.m. The Wiggan family at the time was in Vancouver, returning yesterday afternoon.

DISTANT HYDRANT
Firemen under Deputy Fire Chief Glen Robbins had to lay 3,000 feet of hose from two trucks, and hook up a pumper at the hydrant.

By then the house was a spectacular blaze with veranda, walls, floor and roof all afire, but the flames were checked before getting a real hold on the four-room bedroom wing.

Victorians to Attend

Some 30 delegates from Victoria union locals are expected to attend the second annual convention of the B.C. Federation of Labor in Vancouver Oct. 24 to 26.

Firemen were able to cut loose two tanks of propane gas attached to bedroom wing of the four-year-old house.

LESS SEVERE

Less damage was caused at a second fire later in the morning at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harry J. Macdonald, 3741 Saanich.

Here the blaze apparently started in cans of rubbish outside the house. Firemen were there almost at once, but even though the hydrant was adjacent, by the time the hose was hooked up wind had carried the flames to the house, to a window, to curtains, and onto the roof.

New Wealth from Waste

INDUSTRIAL expansion in the west is so rapid nowadays that people take no more than cursory interest in construction projects which would have been regarded as gigantic not so many years ago. A million-dollar building job which within fairly recent memory would have been regarded almost with awe now rates little more than passing mention. An industry has to embark on new work running into the tens of millions to arouse a spark of interest. And the way heavy industry is going ahead in British Columbia the public may soon need expenditures in the hundreds of millions to stir their imagination.

What prompts this observation is the fact that within a matter of weeks production will begin at B.C. Forest Products' new pulp mill at Crofton, where the first sod was turned little more than a year ago. New pulp mills and the like have become almost commonplace on Vancouver Island; yet this one is costing more than $38,000,000 and is said to be the last word in modern design and manufacturing practice. Whole cities cost less than that within living memory; and this mill is almost a city, requiring among things a waterworks system and a 10-mile pipeline capable in other circumstances of serving the requirements of a very large population.

By the time the mill is finished most of the $38,000,000 will have gone in wages, though that fact may not be fully appreciated. Much, probably most, of the contract price will have been spent on materials; but materials represent wages—to loggers, millworkers, cement plant crews, workers in sand and gravel pits, steelworkers, machinists and men in all the other occupations which turn out materials for the building and equipping of a modern plant.

More important than the employment which a job of that magnitude provides is the fact that from the day the wheels start turning this new mill will be a continuing source of wealth for the surrounding district, forming the core of what will largely be a new community. At present scales the Crofton plant will create an annual payroll of around $1,500,000 out of raw products which otherwise would go to waste, as they have done for generations. The mill will feed on the waste from the company's other manufacturing plants at Victoria, Youbou, Vancouver and Hammond, turning into a highly valuable commodity materials which not so long ago was consigned to the incinerators. That utilization of waste, furnishing a livelihood for a new community, is one of modern industry's greatest achievements.

A Cogent Summation

LACK of propinquity has enabled Canadians to follow the attacks on the Queen by petty peers and a sensational British press with a judicial calmness. They are not so intimately involved and are perhaps able to take a more objective view of the matter and of the difficulties facing a monarchy in modern times. They are likely to agree that the following quiet remarks on the situation by the London Spectator reflect their own point of view. The Spectator says: "The Royal Family has to be both ordinary and royal, and at any given moment some people will think that they are being too royal and insufficiently ordinary, or too ordinary and insufficiently royal, while some, who are particularly hard to please, may even think they are both too ordinary and too royal."

"Obviously the Queen and her advisers have to be careful to steer between austerity and extravagance. In this, most people will probably agree, they succeed very well. Indeed, although the Royal Family may for one reason or another be less popular than it was at the Coronation, there is little doubt that the monarchy is working far better than most of our institutions.

"The Queen is charming, conscientious and attractive, and the Duke of Edinburgh is gay, unorthodox, and of unusual ability. Together they live a life of the highest dignity, propriety and family devotion. Judged by any standards they are a very strong pair and we have a great deal to be thankful for."

That will strike most Canadians as a cogent and fair summation of the situation. When one considers the personal and family attributes of some heads of state there is cause for satisfaction in the decency and probity of the Commonwealth's royal house. The Queen and her consort have a difficult and delicate role to sustain, and there is ample evidence of their honest response to the obligations and responsibilities demanded of them. All other things aside the Commonwealth has every reason for pride in the quality of its monarch and her family.

Saved by an Election

MANY things may follow in the wake of an election, not the least the fate of old historic buildings. One such is the West Block of the pile on Ottawa's Parliament Hill. It was condemned to destruction by the former works minister but the new incumbent, Mr. Howard Green, has saved it. Instead of being torn down it will be restored as a centre of national interest.

The West Block is the most historic of the Parliament Hill group. It antedates Confederation. It was the meeting place of parliament when there were only two provinces, Ontario and Quebec, under the name of Canada. It was from an office in the West Block that Sir John A. Macdonald, the nation's first prime minister, guided the affairs of the new states after Confederation. It has associations of value and tradition. By contrast the Centre Block containing the Peace Tower, the only one open to visitors, dates back only to 1922, it being a replacement of the older building destroyed by fire in 1916.

Both the present prime minister, Mr.

Diefenbaker, and Mr. Green protested from the opposition benches against the Liberal decision to reconstruct entirely the West Block, and now Mr. Green has the power and opportunity to restore it rather than destroy it. The former decision was taken primarily on architectural advice, but the new works minister has evolved an alternative plan which will preserve its character and continuity.

Mr. Green's idea is to restore the West Block as a historic centre of attraction to Canadians and visitors alike. As a capital city Ottawa is none too plentiful in physical ties with the nation's past, and the minister's decision will be well received. Canada is only a decade short of its confederation centenary and by then the West Block will loom even more importantly as a link with the nation's early history.

If the shade of Sir John A. is following political events it will doubtless take note of the felicity of one Conservative minister having regard for the former precincts of another. It may even nod thanks to the electors who made the consideration possible.

In Elephant Hall

By HOLLIS LIMPRESCH
North American Newspaper Alliance

LINCOLN — Nebraska's elephants are on the move again. But curators of the university of Nebraska museum, not animal trainers, will supervise the transfer. The elephant hall of the university museum here contains one of the world's most complete records of the giant mammoths and mastodons, fore-runners of today's elephants, which roamed the North American prairie land up to a million years ago.

The fossils of the elephant hall at the university are being moved to new quarters. When completed the elephant hall will present the elephant fossils in their logical order of development and in their natural habitat.

Nebraska, particularly the western part of the state, is one of the richest regions in North America in beds of well-preserved fossils, of which the mammoths and mastodons are the most notable.

At one time, several eons ago, central United States was under water. Later the rocky mountains poked their peaks above the waters and the plains country was developed. There was a land bridge with Asia and during the ice age many of the animals which inhabited what is now Nebraska moved to Asia. The camels and horses, for example, migrated to Asia about a million years ago. The fossil beds under Nebraska's farmland soil contain complete stories of the development of the camel, rhinoceros, horse, giant hog, beaver, dog and cat as well as the early ancestors of today's elephant.

The most recent skeleton addition to Nebraska's elephant hall was completed this summer. It is the bones of the stegomastodon, which measured 29 feet from the tip of its tusks to tail. The bones were discovered in 1939 in western Nebraska and took several years to dig out, preserve and reconstruct.

The museum has two modern-day African elephants on display in the elephant hall. They stand in a habitat similar to their native land of Victoria Lake, Africa. Large as they are, today's elephants could almost walk under the stomach of the impressive mounted skeleton of the world's largest mammoth, known as an archidiskodon maibeni.

This mammoth stands 14 feet at the shoulders, with the massive head and tusks sweeping upward.

Eighty-seven of Nebraska's 93 counties have yielded the bones of these ancient elephants. The "youngest" of these primitive animals were still alive 10,000 to 20,000 years ago when man first appeared on the Nebraska grassland.

Nobody is sure why the huge animals disappeared, according to Tanner, but it is felt that man was the last obstacle they could not conquer.

"Couldn't we get ahead of them some time?"

Thinking Aloud Gerald Waring

"... of shoes—and ships—and sealing wax—of cabbages and kings."

By TOM TAYLOR

I WAS looking in a book for something else but as often happens my eye took in a sideline, and this diverted my thoughts.

'Twas a remark by Christopher Morley to the effect that being a Presbyterian keeps a man from getting any fun out of his sins. I presume because, like John Knox, he's supposed to have a gloomy face.

Funny the popular feeling that comedy and the church have nothing in common. There was a film once about an angel who came down to earth to help a bishop and it was a sidesplitter. Maybe to some viewers it seemed a bit sacrilegious but if angels adopt human form they are apt to behave like human beings.

And there's no good reason why laughter and Christianity should be incompatible.

Christianity isn't exactly a subject for levity but that does not mean a cheery face has no place within the sacred confines of a church.

There is nothing more innocent than the laughter of a child, after all, and an adult smile should carry no offence because age has reached its own face.

True enough the early founders of the church are not depicted as hilarious persons and so perhaps the influence of their austerity has come down through the ages. This could be due to their biographers, however, who were dealing with scanty source materials.

There is no evidence to suggest, for instance, that Peter and Paul were immune to a joke even allowing they had a reluctant people to bring into line.

The fire and brimstone preachers of a vanished age certainly didn't add gaiety to religion and it may be due to them that the church is connected with gloom in the public mind.

Even nowadays if a minister tells a humorous story from the pulpit it is cause for surreptitious side-glances, for all the world as though he had broken a commandment. And yet with his robes doffed he might be one of the cheeriest souls alive. If he is he wears the cloth better because of his good humor.

There may be an assumption that Jesus bore a grave look during his ministry, but at best the Gospels are fragmentary and it seems valid to believe that in his lifetime, and in association with his brothers and sisters, he had cause for human laughter on appropriate occasions.

No family has ever been without its own private comedies.

Old-time artists could be to blame. As portrayed by paintings the likeness of Christ indicates a grave disposition, but that could be because of the beard he wore. The New Testament is silent on the point but the general presumption that Jesus and his disciples had beards is considered to be correct. Shaving was probably still uncommon in the Roman Empire during the first century A.D.

And old family albums indicate that men in beards are seldom pictured with a smiling face.

On the other hand a gentle man would be bound to betray the milk of his kindness through a smile, and it should be a fallacy to think otherwise.

Piety and glumness needn't necessarily go hand in hand and perhaps even the stern John Knox could relax at the odd moment. In spite of Mr. Morley some of his adherents certainly do.

Reports from Ottawa

"THAT'S not," said the former cabinet minister, "what he told us." Thus by implication, and without ill will, is Louis St. Laurent being accused of dissembling when he used words to newsmen which by any reasonable interpretation mean that he will lead the Liberal party in next spring.

Just what St. Laurent did tell his erstwhile ministers in their parley here a fortnight ago is not public knowledge. But the comments of several of the fallen Grit godlings make it clear that:

1. St. Laurent did not commit himself to retaining the party leadership either indefinitely or for a set period. And since he did not, and in light of the likelihood of an election next May or June, that raises the strong supposition that he will quit in time for a new leader to take over and get organized to fight the 1958 campaign.

2. None of the former ministers cared to bring the matter in a head with blunt and embarrassing inquiry as to St. Laurent's intentions, and St. Laurent blandly ignored the unspoken question.

3. Those close to the old PM expect he will resign not later than the end of this fall session of Parliament, and perhaps earlier, in mid-session.

I was present in the office of the Leader of the Opposition two weeks ago when St. Laurent told newsmen in answer to questions about his intentions:

"There has been no suggestion made for any other arrangement for any election now in contemplation."

And later:

"I would expect there would be nothing done if there were an election next spring to change the situation as it now exists."

Such were his comments the day after his talks with his former ministers. Some of the latter tell me that in their sessions with their chief, it appeared to them that he had not yet made up his mind whether to resign or not. Did he come to a firm decision overnight to stay on? Possibly. But the ousted ministers I've talked to don't think so. They do not expect 1958 to dawn with St. Laurent still party leader.

The Liberal politicians want to hold Quebec; it is pretty near all they have left. They are confident St. Laurent's leadership can do that for them.

But equally they want to increase their strength in the other provinces. Many Liberals believe that requires a new leader, an English-Canadian.

They also see grave danger in the possibility that the next election may leave them only a Quebec party. In that event, they fear, the Quebec Liberal group would swing further to the right than the Conservatives, and the Tories would take over the Liberals' traditional role of middle-of-the-roads.

The problem sifts down to one of holding Quebec, or at least a major part of it, with a new English-speaking leader. If this is to be accomplished, then the last thing they want is to give Quebec the impression that they are ditching St. Laurent. It's felt that would be the surest way of losing Quebec.

But, it's argued, it would be quite a different matter if St. Laurent remains leader until some time in November or December, and then announces his retirement on grounds that a man nearly 76 cannot provide the tireless labor required to rebuild the party.

"Quebec," opines a man who might then take over the job, "would buy that."

The Packsack

Harder to Dissemble

By GREGORY CLARK

AS we grow old our true character, like our bones, begins to show through. When we are young we learn, by example and sometimes by bitter experience, to dissemble. Part of our heritage, religious and educational, is the principle of controlling ourselves, mastering our true nature, whether base or noble, so that we fit into the social picture comfortably.

Those of us who have criminal or anti-social instincts often fail at dissembling and live a tangled-up and fruitless life. Those of us who conquer are given to eat of the hidden manna. Those of us who are born with too humane and gentle a nature have to learn how little it profits us to allow our true nature to sway us; and we master our goodness at least to the degree that it does not make fools of us. Those who fall through life put upon, cheated, preyed upon and perhaps kindly remembered.

But as we grow old dissembling becomes harder and harder to handle. We perhaps lose faith in dissembling. So we become cranks, harridans, sourpusses, harpies, scowlers, shrews, grumpers. But by long odds the most precious of all the aging are those who were born gentle and had to adopt hardness as a means of getting on in the world; and who, in their elder years, begin to reveal their true nature.

I have in mind a man in his 70s who had, for the past four decades, a reputation for being fair but firm, with the emphasis on the firm. Almost everyone had a great respect for him, but few had any affection for him. He did not invite affection. He made a great reputation as one of this country's most prosperous and efficient businessmen. And he enjoyed the eager respect of his colleagues among the brass, as well as the goodwill and utter faith of his employees, including, in his later years, the trades unions that shared in many of his later enterprises. "Tough," they said of him, "but fair."

It was all an act. By nature, and in essential character, he was a soft-hearted and somehow a timid man, who mastered these characteristics in order to be what he was to the several industries he ultimately served. For in the end he became so absurdly gentle and kindly that he was forced to retire from all his responsibilities, one by one. And in his will he left his entire fortune to a selection of charities every one of which is notable for being kindly, aimless, gentle, unquestioningly generous, and badly run.

Canadian Notebook

By RICHARD L. THOMAS

WHEN it is not the weather, or the lack of it, the main source of conversation in Victoria seems to be the "slowness" of the town. The term is obviously relative. It may mean anything from the absence of jive sessions for the gracious ladies who haunt the Empress to adequately organized vice.

Broadly it does not apply to the traffic and most certainly does not apply to standards of living. In some respects Victoria has an air of impatience.

I am intrigued, for example, by the extraordinary number of firms which wish to lend us money—to go on holiday, to buy a new car, to pay outstanding bills and, I hope, feed the family. One presumes that they all make adequate livings and that they provide a useful service for the community. I am, however, confused to read that on the one hand the Bank of Canada has imposed a credit squeeze and on the other that I may have a car, refrigerator and most other things without any down payment and no installments until next month. It is all extraordinarily high finance which must be a dreadful trap for the unwary and is possibly the reason for all the nice gentlemen who will help you out with personal loans. It suggests, however, that far from being slow Victoria—and for that matter the rest of Canada—is so fast that it cannot wait for anything.

It would be interesting if the federal statistician could compile figures showing just how much Canadians paid for credit in relation to commodity purchases. It must be a considerable percentage of sales. It would also be interesting to know how much of this finance is represented by American money and so contributing to the depreciation of the United States dollar.

Against this acquisitive rush—which must be paid for heavily—there is one remarkable anomaly. No one seems to be particularly anxious to finance house purchase. The one thing which appears to be most eminently justified as a prolonged hire-purchase transaction is the one most consistently ignored. I am told that the usual arrangement for house purchase is from a third to a half deposit—yet everything which goes within it may be obtained on far easier terms.

The answer may be bound up in the total time of credit. Ordinary hire-purchase is usually between 18 months and three years for the whole transaction. House purchase on low terms means anything from 20 to 30 years, and the tendency in the New World is for investors not to tie up their money for too long—allied with the tendency of citizens to move on more readily. Sharp economic fluctuations tend to make booms and slumps which are reflected more than most things in the value of property.

"The quick buck" seems to be the challenge of the age and Victoria is not exempt. Long-term mortgages are designed for steady income for both parties.

But the moral or financial justification for transport and holidays on credit is one of the mysteries of the age. One presumes that it increases business. It must also increase headaches. Looking round at the credit facilities which haunt the people of Canada inviting them to do everything from "charging it" at a store to having a month's holiday in Europe (including tips) for 10 per cent down, I wonder if anyone ever tots up their total liabilities and if they do what it is that prevents them jumping into the harbor. It could be the cost of funerals.

The slowness which I have detected in Victoria is fundamentally inconsistency. The enchanting flower baskets and kerbside tubs are a gracious tribute to beauty in the modern age—yet why is it no one seems to have noticed the signs depicting street names? With great respect I submit that these are masterpieces of bush carpentry and primitive signwriting. I do not challenge their utility. They have clarity and commanding ugliness, and no doubt they are cheap as such things go.

What is surprising is that a city which can think in terms of flower baskets can also think in terms of such aesthetically irritating street signs. It is a fallacy to assume that artistic design is necessarily more expensive or less utilitarian. Nowhere is this more in evidence than in much modern furniture and domestic appliances. Beautiful street indicators would add immeasurably to the charm of Victoria. Urgent, too, is the elimination of the positively monstrous bus signs in the city and the wooden posts elsewhere.

These aesthetic eyesores almost eliminate the charm of flower baskets, though we must be thankful for the departing maze of overhead wires in the city which I hope will very soon be extended to the suburbs.

Letters to the Editor

One to a Car

As a simple solution of the traffic problem of today as compared with horses and oxen, it seems to me to be one of selfishness. Why could not many of the people, one to a big car, not walk or take a bus? Our bus service could handle much of the traffic and would completely relieve much of the parking problem. I see women with several children and shopping bags in the bus with cars whizzing past with one occupant.

It seems to me that people who would be normal on their feet, become like the "one to a car" when they get into a car.

One of your recent editorials commented on the craze of cars—bigger, faster, dearer—where will it end? We might hope, back to horses and oxen, but that is only a hope.

I wish to thank you and express my appreciation of the swim classes which have just terminated in Duncan.

Owing to illness my little girl was only able to attend half of the classes, but even with that she can now swim several yards where she could not even get her feet off the ground before. I think it is splendid.

Proud Record

In your last two publications you have drawn to the attention of your readers a couple of interesting exhibits on show at the fall exhibition of the North and South Saanich Agricultural Society.

In both these news items you referred to it as the "Saanichon Fall Fair." This is incorrect. The above is the actual designation but this has been shortened and the common title and usage is the Saanich Fall Fair.

The fact that it is held in the area of Saanichon postal district is just incidental. This spot was chosen because of its central location on the peninsula.

The pioneer founders never intended it to be a parochial fair; in fact away back in 1871 when they printed their posters they invited all "Colonial Industry" to participate in the exhibition, because as it is stated the plans for a Victoria fair had not materialized.

I am sure the founders or their spirits if they hover over us on Saturday and Monday will be proud of their sons, and other members, that they have carried on the tradition and enhanced its reputation to the point where it is now officially recognized as a class B exhibition and will be formally opened as such, on Monday, Labor Day.

Also as far as we can ascertain no other fair west of the Great Lakes is as old in continuity as this one.

On behalf of the board, thanks for your interest in it.

Killers Told:

Death 'Too Easy'

REDWOOD CITY, Calif. (UPI)—Two men accused of the brutal "kangaroo court" execution of a fellow inmate in the San Mateo county jail last month were sentenced to life in prison yesterday by a judge who said the gas chamber would be "too easy" for them.

The defendants, Dan Howard, 38, of Los Angeles, and Joseph Veitenheimer, 39, were accused of strangling Robert Young, 38, a partially-deaf vagrant, after a mock trial in which they had sentenced him to death for refusing to talk to them.

Judge A. R. Cotton said he believed a death penalty would be "too easy" in view of the shocking crime, has retired Lt. Gen. Sir Hugh "I'll give you life imprisonment," he said, "so you'll have plenty of time to repent."

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The United States Wednesday eased export controls on goods destined for Poland, giving the Communist nation a trade status nearly equal to any of the United States' friendliest allies.

The move opened the way for Poland to get such U.S. goods as industrial machinery, steel mill products, machine tools, electrical machinery and vehicles.

Also Poland now can import surplus U.S. agricultural commodities on a bartered basis, something hitherto impossible. The relaxation of controls was promised last June when the two countries signed an economic agreement providing Poland a U.S. loan of nearly $49,000,000 for the purchase of American agricultural products and mining machinery.

Those negotiations, which lasted 3½ months, came after President Eisenhower last February promised help to Poland or any other Red nation which demonstrated a will to assert its sovereignty and independence of Russian domination.

Police Hold Man In Train Robbery

LONDON, Ont. (CPI)—Provincial police arrested a 35-year-old man at his London home Wednesday night and held him for questioning in connection with a train robbery near Woodstock earlier in the day.

The suspect was under interrogation and police said no charges had been laid.

Three bandits disguised as railroaders boarded a CNR passenger train at Woodstock early Wednesday and alighted seven miles down the line after looting the mail car.

The holdup was Canada's first train robbery since 1928. Masked and carrying pistols, the men locked the eight-man mail crew in a washroom and closet before they jumped off the train during its two-minute stop in Ingersoll, 15 miles east of London.

The train was half-way to London before the crew broke free and pulled the emergency cord.

Police in London said between $3,000 and $6,000 in cash was part of the loot. They said large sums of money are shipped to London by Toronto banks for weekend payrolls.

The holdup may have been "an inside job," said CNR Police Director George A. Shea, attending a national convention of police chiefs in London.

"It appears the left door of the mail car was left unlocked," he said, "in railroad mail operations that is a cardinal sin."

The three gunmen appeared in the mail car shortly after the train, with 16 cars bound for Windsor from Toronto, pulled out of Woodstock.

Too Busy Living To Be Communist

Canadian Toured Where He Wanted

TORONTO (CP) — William Kinmond, home from a news assignment in Communist China, said Wednesday he is convinced the bulk of the Chinese are not Communist and never will be.

"They are too busy just living to be concerned with political philosophy," he said in an interview.

Mr. Kinmond, 43, arrived in Red China April 27 on assignment for the Toronto Globe and Mail. He returned to Canada this month. During his stay in China, he travelled freely through the country, logging 7,500 miles, visiting 15 cities and countless towns and villages.

He said the only obstacles to travel were those of the country itself. He went where he pleased and talked with whom he pleased. As far as he knows, none of the more than 60 air-mailed dispatches he sent to his paper was censored.

His major problems, he said,

Fight for Survival

Mr. Kinmond said the fight for survival is so intense that the average Chinese is not concerned with external matters. Animosity to the West is fostered by the regime but China's millions know little and care little about anything other than their own problems.

It is his belief, he said, that even within the Communist party there are many Chinese who are members only because membership gives them a chance to better themselves.

There is no luxury life, however, even for top Communists, because there is no privacy and the scale of living is governed by the fact that no one can hide anything. Costs are not high in terms of Canadian funds but are exorbitant in relation to wages.

Mr. Kinmond, a Second World War correspondent who spent the last seven months of the war as a prisoner of the Germans, said he saw many soldiers and sailors; all airfields are heavily guarded and every city has its own garrison, especially in the south which would be the main target of a nationalist invasion from Formosa.

Many plants are equipped with Russian machinery and many Russians live in China—there is a colony of more than 3,000 in Peking. The Chinese told him most of the Russians are technicians or are acting in an advisory capacity.

Mr. Kinmond, who speaks no Chinese, used interpreters provided at his expense by the government agency Intourist. He said the interpreters and foreign office and other government officials with whom he talked made no apparent attempt to indoctrinate him and appeared to welcome his criticism of communism and conditions in China.

Season Poor For Salmon; Tuna Better

ASTORIA, Ore. (AP) — The Columbia River salmon season just ended was the worst August season in 30 years, with the possible exception of 1954, packers and fishermen said yesterday.

Many fishermen said they caught less than a ton during the 15-day season.

But good tuna catches were being reported off the Oregon-Washington coast. Deliveries to processors here were averaging more than a ton a boat. Some larger craft were coming in with as much as four tons.

Members Hunt for Space

Hall Group Given Tasks

Saanich's brand new hall committee agreed last night to start thorough investigations into seven suggested alternatives to a permanent hall addition in providing needed space for employees.

Chairman George Chatterton was backed by committee members in setting as the goal of their studies a "minimum amount of office space consistent with a certain measure of efficiency" to accommodate the municipality's administration needs for at least five years.

He said he would talk with heads of departments to determine basic requirements in floor space.

A total of approximately 13,000 square feet may be required in all with 7,000 square feet in new office space supplementing the 6,000 square feet in the Royal Oak Hall. Coun. Chatterton said. The chairman will investigate the following alternatives:

Construction of a building similar to the proposed permanent hall, at a cost of about $140,000, but eliminating some of the vestigations will cover, among other things, the possibility of leasing the nearby women's institute hall.

A probe into the possibility of purchasing 10 acres of "low use" property, centrally located, as a future municipal yard site, and an inquiry into whether space in some other location may be leased for the municipal staff will be Coun. Ainslie Worthington's chores.

Old Theatre To Become Parking Site

A Government Street landmark will disappear and a parking lot will take its place, it was announced yesterday.

The Imperial Bank of Canada, 1301 Government, has bought the old Rio Theatre which adjoins the bank. The theatre, which has not operated for five or six years, will be demolished.

The Rio Theatre first opened in 1899 and was known as the Savoy. Its name was later changed to the New Grand, the Columbia and finally the Rio.

Anglo-U.S. Relations Hit New Low

LONDON (UPI)—A New York Times columnist, who queried scores of Englishmen in their pubs and clubs and asked hundreds of others—through newspaper advertisements—to give their opinions of Americans.

Bernay's conclusion was that Anglo-American relations, supposedly hardest tested last fall, now had reached "the crisis situation," and that it was high time for the U.S. and British governments to launch a full-scale Transatlantic public relations campaign.

"Working class Britons think all Americans are brash, bumptious and infantile," he said. "Professional classes think the same of most American tourists, although they like Americans of their own stature. The professionals, however, more significantly fear and resent American foreign policy."

The man-on-the-street survey that included lords and ladies, street cleaners, psychiatrists, news-vendors, composers and taxi-drivers, produced these comments:

"Tell us more of the unglamorous news of your people. Tell us of the miners, the factory workers, the farm hands, the school kids."

"But don't beat the drum too hard that they are the highest paid, least worked, happiest people on earth. They may be but it causes more envy than admiration. And envy breeds hate."

Jackie Gleason, sour on TV, is searching for the right movie. When the movies buy Helen Traubel's biography, the great mezzo-soprano will do her own singing—that's part of the deal.

Recipe for Success

Health, Sense, Guts Immigrants' Need

LONDON (CP) — Three opinions on British immigration to Canada are offered in the correspondence columns of the Manchester Guardian.

Rt. Rev. Godfrey Gower, Anglican bishop of New Westminster, writes that the "vast majority" of new citizens reaching British Columbia have shown initiative and adaptability. Only the "very few" cause trouble.

"This is not a country of primitive conditions... discomforts are few. Competent people can succeed."

Bishop Gower, members of whose church have met every immigrant plane since March, says Anglican immigration centres in Edmonton, Winnipeg, Montreal and Toronto would concur in his view.

EMPLOYMENT TIGHT

Mrs. A. Groves, writing from New Westminster, acknowledges that Canada is a fine country, but speaking as an immigrant, says there are times when it is hard to find employment. Before leaving London she and her husband had been given the impression that there was plenty of work, but in fact there are 32,000 unemployed in Vancouver at present and a prospect of 50,000 to 60,000 in the summer and winter off-season.

"Some young people who did not have very much to tide them over are in really desperate straits..."

DID EVERYTHING

Tom Crawshaw of Edmonton, writes as one who emigrated from Yorkshire 30 years ago at the age of 19. All he had was "what I stood up in" and a golden sovereign, his mother's gift to use as a "last resort."

Since then he had worked as farm boy, lumberjack, pick-and-shovel laborer, storekeeper, Mountie and as manager of apartment blocks in Edmonton and Calgary. He had slept in culverts and haystacks and missed many a meal, but he was not wasting his time... we want immigrants, but we do not want them as badly as that."

"So can any British immigrant if he has health, sense and guts enough to take the sparks by the horns. The correspondence was and knots. The other kind, those the Guardian, which said some looking for their type of work disgruntled emigrants showed only and expecting to see pubs a "kind of impertinence" in on every corner, had better quit their comments on Canada.

WASHINGTON (UPI)—An air force general told Senate investigators yesterday that $44,000,000 worth of surplus Arctic bases because of a lack of "manpower and know-how." Lt. Gen. Glenn O. Barcus, former commanding officer of the northeast air command in Greenland, Labrador and Newfoundland, told the Senate investigating committee that poorly-trained, inexperienced recruits in the undermanned supply department caused at least some of the surplus.

COULDN'T COPE

"We knew we were making mistakes," he said. "We just didn't have the manpower and know-how to cope with them."

The committee, headed by Sen. John L. McClellan, is investigating the amount of government waste involved in the case, whether similar excesses exist around the world, and whether the air force supply system operates efficiently.

TURNING UP

McClellan said the defence department learned of the surplus through the committee and has opened its own investigation. He said the continuing military investigation has turned up millions of dollars worth of excess parts.

The subcommittee staff, backed by the defence department's findings, blamed the surplus on the lack of inventory control, poor calculation of requirements, improper requisitioning and inadequate storage.

But Col. Loran Anderson, Barcus' former director of material, said half his men were under 21 years old and mostly untrained.

"I thought I was doing everything I could" to get rid of the surplus, Anderson said. "We physically could only do so much."

Former commanders of the bases said the value of parts and supplies involved might go higher than the $44,000,000 estimate.

Shoes Must Be Worn; It's a Roseland Rule

By DOC QUIGG
NEW YORK (UP)—Lou Brecker, who is celebrating the 40th anniversary in his career of inducing people to play footsy with a slick maple floor, estimates that 20,000,000 persons have danced through his life, from ragtime to cha-cha.

In 40 years as a dance-palace proprietor, he's seen some changes made. The hostess and the dime-a-dance have passed. In the early days, the average age of the dancers was about 25. Now it's 35 or more. And there are plenty of elderly steady customers.

"Sixty per cent of our crowd come in in couples," he says. In past years, when we had hostesses, 10 per cent couples was a big percentage."

It was August, 1917, when Brecker moved his place at 12th and Chestnut in Philadelphia. Two years later, when he moved here and opened his famous Roseland Ballroom at 51st and Broadway, the first floor of the building was occupied by Healy's Carriage Factory.

In his new block-bug $4,000,000 building, we sat and watched more than 1,000 dancers swirling—a remarkable crowd considering that it was the middle of a weekday summer afternoon.

The old Roseland Ballroom—the place where dance marathons began in 1924, where Roxy staged a dance wedding in the late 1920's, where, at a funeral for prohibition, people marched around a coffin and tossed their flasks in—is being torn down.

Brecker's sumptuous new place is called "Roseland Dance City." It has a 30,000-square-foot dance floor, three television lounges, a $350,000 yearly budget for name bands, and no rock 'n' roll or crazy stunts.

"Rock 'n' roll is banned," Brecker said. "In the first place, they jump around too much on the floor; second, it's a dance primarily for kids, and, while I think it's okay for kids, we don't want it."

Here are some other Roseland rules. No admittance without a necktie. (If you need one, you can buy it at the boxoffice for 35 cents, and sell it back when you leave). No Bermuda shorts. And shoes must be worn while dancing.

'Cut-Down Gun Shows He Planned Shooting'

A verdict of murder "by more than $100) cut it down. There would be no the inquest was held. Burial of Mrs. Gladys Hollier, 47, of 586 need then to cut the rifle down." will be at Royal Oak.

Mrs. Hollier's body was found Sunday morning on the floor of her one-room apartment. She had been shot through the chest.

On the floor of the same room was the body of Julian Tomkowicz, 52, of 406 Quebec. He had been shot through the head, and a cut-down rifle was lying by his hand.

Identification of Mrs. Hollier's body was established formally before Coroner E. C. Hart by Robert Gerald Jackson, Churchill Hotel, a family friend.

Mr. Jackson also identified the dead man as Julian Tomkowicz, who he said had been pestering Mrs. Hollier for some time.

Const. Barrie English told of answering a call to 586 Toronto, at about 9:15 a.m. Sunday.

Unable to get any response from Mrs. Hollier's room at the door, he entered the ground floor apartment through a partly-opened window, beneath which he found a chair from the porch.

From the window Const. English said he could see a man's body on the floor, with a gun nearby.

Going into the room, he saw the body of a woman. Both were apparently dead.

Det. Robert Mair told the jury he arrived at the scene at about 9:30 a.m. and found the two bodies on either side of a bed in the room.

A gun was lying near the man's body, and two empty and two live .22 cartridges were also on the floor.

The weapon, said Det. Mair, was a high-powered, foreign-made .22 purchased in a city department store about 10 days ago and subsequently cut down.

It would appear, said Dr. Hart, "that the purchaser of this expensive rifle (I believe it cost

Big Call Expected For Night Courses

Record registrations are expected for 175 night courses arranged by Greater Victoria school board to start next month.

About 4,500 students—1,100 more than last year—are anticipated, director John H. L. Dalgleish said last night.

He warned that students who did not register promptly might find that classes were filled.

Apprenticeship courses are arranged by the school board for the provincial department of labor.

The courses include 36 apprenticeship series and others cover commercial, general and technical subjects, arts and crafts and recreation.

Apprenticeship courses will begin Sept. 16 and all others will start Sept. 30. Registrations will be accepted up to a week after the particular course opens, if there is a vacancy.

Advance registrations may be made by mail or in person at the school board offices. Information bulletins are available at a number of downtown stores, city hall, municipal halls, public library and the Victoria and Island Publicity Bureau.

SOS Device Turned Down

By DAVID BROWN

An HMC Dockyard electronics technician, distressed at the inability of searchers to locate downed aircraft until long after crashes occur, has devised an automatic radio signaller that would be set in action at the moment of impact.

Ivor T. Palmer sent a drawing and explanation of his device to the national defence department last spring and may now be able to have his device patented.

But the department cannot accept the proposal because, after evaluation by "specialist officers," it was decided the device "could not be expected to operate under the force which would be present at the moment of impact."

NOT FAR ENOUGH

Mr. Palmer believes the department has "not gone far enough into this thing" when it rebuffs his proposal on these grounds.

The Esquimalt inventor proposes that planes wear long feelers, protruding from wing tips and the nose. The moment the ends of the feelers touched a solid object, a spring would be released or small explosive charge set off in tiny wells within each wing, releasing pocket-sized radio transmitters through plastic domes, up and away from the crash. An attached parachute would float it gently to the ground in the vicinity, far enough away from fire damage.

WEEK-LONG SOS

The second it is released from the wings, the tiny radios would transmit SOS signals for a 10-mile radius of the crash.

India Training Egypt Airmen

NEW DELHI (Reuters) — India is helping Egypt train her air force. Deputy Defence Minister Surjit Singh Majithia told the House of People yesterday.

Answering a question, Majithia said Egypt sought India's help in training air force personnel. Some members of the Egyptian air force have been given training in Indian air force establishments and a few Indian air force instructors have been loaned to the Egyptian government, he said.

The signals, broadcast on the distress signal band, would continue four-minute for a period possibly as long as a week.

The transmitter's case would be a light aluminum, giving it enough weight to open the parachute at the apex of its upward flight. It would also be surrounded by cork to keep it dry and floating should it land in a stream or lake.

The field has hardly been scratched, Mr. Palmer maintains.

Said the deputy minister in returning the plans:

"The specialist officers who were charged with evaluating the details of this device have now completed their appraisal and report that a great deal of development work has been done during the past several years with the object of producing such a crash position indicator."

However, the department announced that a "determination of ownership" of the device has been made in favor of Mr. Palmer and an application form for a Canadian patent was enclosed.

"I'm not interested in the money," the inventor said. "I believe that possibly a combination electro-mechanical device may be the answer; and somewhere there must be someone who can apply it."

B.C. Chiefs Enjoy Fire

Some 100 B.C. fire chiefs relaxed and had fun at Royal Colwood Golf Club last night—at a fire.

The attraction was salmon being barbecued—not the flames—but it was probably the safest outdoor fire in Colwood's history.

During the day wives of the fire chiefs were entertained in the clubhouse at a tea, and the chiefs themselves played golf.

Young Naturalists Make Field Trip

Enthusiastic members of the Junior Natural History Group, with their leader, Freeman King, secretary, Miss Betty Newton, and families made a field trip to Ardmore Beach Sunday.

A barn dance ended the evening.

It was the second day of the four-day annual convention of the B.C. Association of Fire Chiefs, being held in Victoria with city Fire Chief Frank Briers as host.

Today the 100 delegates will have a second business session and see public displays of fire-fighting equipment—at the fire hall in the morning and at the department of transport wharf early in the afternoon.

Officers will be elected to-morrow morning.

Tuesday the chiefs learned how to deal with radioactivity, in case of atomic attack or certain industrial fires.

The man who told what to do and how to do it was T. W. McConnell Davies of the provincial mines department.

Bouncing Ball Elusive Target

There's really nothing to be afraid of, but Jackie Norbury (13) and Ben Bostrom (17) of Nanaimo Stars were a little bit afraid as it was a moment in front of Nanaimo's first game of the season.

Ice hockey is a game of penalties, but the Stars took advantage of the penalty rule to win the game 10-7.

Penalties Hurt Nanaimo As Rocks Win First, 10-7

By JIM TAYLOR

Nanaimo Timbermen, who have had more than their share of troubles during the past few weeks, fell victim to another form of injury—the penalty bug—last night at Memorial Arena.

Peterborough Wins Boxla Semi-Finals

moved into the Eastern Canada senior ice hockey finals here Wednesday night by blasting Hamilton Lincolns, 11-7, in the sixth game of a scheduled best-of-seven semi-final series.

Peterborough, Mann Cup finalists last season, won the series 4-2. But the surprising Hamilton club made a great bid for a berth in the final, winning two straight games after losing the first three to the powerful Timbermen.

Hamilton ended Peterborough's three-year home winning streak last Saturday with a 17-16 overtime triumph, then forced a sixth game with a victory at Hamilton Monday night.

Peterborough now meets Long Branch Pontiacs in the best-of-seven finals, the first game scheduled Friday night.

Yankees Defeat Sox Again To Dominate Crucial Series

New York Yankees defeated Boston Red Sox 4-1 in the second game of a crucial series here Wednesday night.

The Yankees, who have won 10 of their last 11 games, took a 2-0 lead in the first inning on home runs by Yogi Berra and Mickey Vernon.

Yankees manager Tom Seaver pitched a strong game, allowing only one run in six innings.

Red Sox manager John McNamara said his team was "out of sync" and "didn't play well."

The series is tied 1-1, with the Yankees leading in the overall record.

Yemen

'Savage' Attack Denied

LONDON (Reuters) — Yemen yesterday denied a report of a 'savage' attack on British troops in the Red Sea area. A statement from the London legation of the Red Sea Arab kingdom said: "At 10 a.m. Yemen local time on Aug. 28 British aircraft launched a savage attack on the first of its kind on the island of Socatra in Yemen." "The aircraft dropped on the area bombs never used before in previous British aggression," the statement said. "The effect of these bombs is that they produce a liquid which burns the spot on which they fall and then produces fatal stroke."

Diefenbaker Says:

Up to Quebec To Settle Gaspe Strike

OTTAWA (RUP) — Prime Minister Diefenbaker yesterday said that the federal government would not interfere in the Gaspe strike. He said that the strike was a local matter and that it was up to the province of Quebec to settle it. He said that the federal government would not send troops to the area to enforce the law.

Forest Fire Ravage Lessens

OTTAWA (RUP) — Forest fires in Canada during July reached their lowest level in 15 years. The Department of Northern Affairs said yesterday. The number of fires during July totalled 75, close to the all-time low of 568 established in July, 1942. Only 26,000 acres of timberland were damaged or destroyed last month against 500,000 acres burned over in the same month last year when 1,100 fires were reported. The total number of fires for the first seven months of the year were almost the same as for the January-July period last year. However, the total acreage destroyed this year is less than one-sixth that destroyed last year.

Nanaimo Has Salty History

Salty history of the Los Angeles yacht "Nanaimo"—so named because Mr. and Mrs. William Palmer liked the Hub City so much last year—is told by Mr. Palmer, second from left, aboard the yacht at Royal Victoria Yacht Club. The Nanaimo has sailed 5,500 miles from Los Angeles since the July 1 start of the Honolulu yacht race. The Palmers came to visit A. J. Bert De La Plante, left, daughter Victoria, centre and Miss Virginia De La Plante, second from right. Miss Palmer is an extreme right. The De La Plantes are summering here. Their home is in Nanaimo. Comox Valley Fall Fair Attracts 1,454 Entries COURTENAY. Annual to improve the existing fairman Comox Valley Fall Fair will be held on the grounds of the fairman tomorrow at Comox Park by Saturday.

Recreation commission chairman Jack Barker, announced that as far as funds were concerned the commission had secured the necessary amount to hold the fair.

A total of 1,454 entries are already in, including floral entries still to come.

On hand for the opening ceremonies will be exhibition association manager Archie Dine and chairmen Harry Cornwall.

Loggers' sports are scheduled for Saturday.

First game in the $1,000 baseball tournament will be held at 8 p.m. Saturday at Comox Park between Comox and Courtenay. The second game will be held at 8 p.m. Sunday and Courtenay will be held at 8 p.m. Monday.

In Vacuum

NANAIMO. The Recreation Commission meeting this week found themselves operating in an administrative vacuum because the new Nanaimo Parks Commission is not yet functioning and will not likely be operating until after Sept. 9, the date of the next city council meeting.

To eliminate overlapping and duplication in Nanaimo recreation, the city council has restructured these civic commissions, parks, recreation and other areas to operate under one the same man parks commission which is

Water Those Vines!

BY M. V. CHESNUT, FRMS

Silver Fleece Vine—(F.M.N., Brentwood Bay). There are several possible reasons why the leaves of your Polygona are turning brown around the edges.

First, the vine may be lacking moisture at the roots. This should always be the first thing to check in the case of a plant that is wilting.

Water deeply, then apply a mulch over the roots. If the plant is in too conspicuous a position to mulch with straw or lawn mowings, put down a few flat flagstones over the root run to conserve moisture and keep the roots cool.

Again, it could be an attack of mites, very common in dry, sunbaked positions. While the mites themselves are almost too small to see, a magnifying glass will show minute traces of web on the backs of the leaves if this pest is present.

The next preventive measure is to keep the plant and the wall behind it wetted down with the hose in dry, sunny weather. When the mites are already established, spray with Malathion.

Drooping Begonia—(R.P., Victoria). If your "pinch" of fertilizer was a teaspoonful or less applied in three pints of water, the dosage is about normal and I don't think this could have caused the wilting of your begonia.

With the leaves limp and drooping in this way it is obvious that something is wrong at the roots preventing the proper intake of water and nutrient.

It could be too much watering for this will defeat its purpose by rotting off the hairlike roots through which the plant absorbs moisture.

I suggest that you lift your plant, discard the soil and wash the roots. If the roots are soft or rotting, burn it.

If reasonably hard and firm, put it up in purchased, sterilized Allway Violet or potting soil and keep it in a good light but out of direct sunshine.

Water very sparingly until new growth starts, but spray the topgrowth daily with clear water.

Neglected Garden—(J.H.K., Victoria). You have a real beautician's hands and I envy you, for there is nothing more satisfying than to take over and renovate an old neglected garden.

To answer your specific question, the old English roses which were borne fruit should be cut out entirely at soil level and the new young ones should be planted.

This can be done any time after frost is over, but there is a limit to getting the job done as the weather warms.

Strawberry plants cannot be touched and moved until they have rooted themselves. Instead of using runners, I suggest that you dig up the young-looking and most vigorous mother plants for making up your new bed. This can be done now.

I'm afraid I haven't time to discuss the pruning of fruit trees but one Victoria Horticultural society arranges for several demonstrations of pruning through the winter months. Attend one of these demonstrations or see the members' and homeowners alike. The dates will be announced in the press.

The Viewing World

Help! Save New York!

By ARLENE FRANCIS

It is said that there is no far in the world like a "flat" flat. They are local, steady and true blue. If you don't hit and Amorel can't pitch and the one dog business as the Broadway theatre is a network of active playhouses and if half the productions were thrown to the floor a man could pass a hat and a shirt and raise enough money to start another.

We have allowed our Broadway theatre to shrink. We stood still while Hollywood took our waters and our actors and the drama took the rest. And only the energy and adventure of Broadway may keep us alive.

And now, California has cornered television. Here we sit at home in our grey flannel suits or our hard soles filled with contracts we didn't feel the elections slipping through our fingers and heading west—too well heated to fight a fight where studios were being built with bread crumbs for them and who knows where through the air.

But I am a dramatist. I want the best that is "flat" comes before it. The best that is "flat" comes before it. The best that is "flat" comes before it. The best that is "flat" comes before it.

You are South. You know your opponents play standard notrump. What is your best response? East's hand therefore cannot be worth more than seven points, including his traditional values. Neither side is vulnerable. What would you do with each of the following North hands?

Police Describe Driver's Struggle

PORT ALBERNI — Arthur Robert Tapley, of Beaver Creek, was convicted of impaired driving in police court this week.

Arrested early Saturday evening, police said, Mr. Tapley did not come quietly. Constables told Magistrate T. M. Patterson of a struggle before the accused was taken, still unsubdued, to headquarters.

The Beaver Creek pig farmer conducted his own defence and presented a prepared statement in which he declared that police had made every effort to make life miserable for him since he was convicted some time ago of a "misdemeanor" and had elected a jail term rather than pay a fine.

There was some trouble at the time over who would feed the pigs during Mr. Tapley's incarceration. He admitted having had three bottles of ale in a Second Avenue club Saturday evening after collecting a load of refuse from city restaurants in his truck. It was when he started the vehicle that he was arrested. Magistrate Patterson fined the accused $50 and costs with an alternative of a jail sentence. Mr. Tapley paid his fine.

RCMP officers giving evidence during the trial told of attempting to drive the garbage-laden truck, described by one constable as a "beaten-up old thing," to police headquarters, and finding a jug of fuel tied under the hood of the vehicle, enabling him to complete the journey.

Mr. Tapley entered a plea of not guilty on Monday, was remanded until Tuesday and given a short leave of absence from his cell in order to take his truck to Beaver Creek and dump the contents.

Youbou Teen-Agers Plan Own Movies

Youbou teen-agers are planning to hold their own dances and movies because there are no organized night entertainments in the town.

No dances have been held in the town since April, and the theatre closed last week.

A number of teen-agers are forming their own branch of Victoria's National Youth Club, with the help of the parent club.

Fifteen-year-old Sandra Clements spent four days last week in Victoria, meeting members of the city club, discussing the constitution and gathering promises of aid for the fledgling club.

She returned to Youbou early this week with promises that a delegation would come from Victoria's club to the first Youbou meeting. She also received advice from supervisory manager Con Watling, and inquiries are being made into the possibility of the Youbou teen-agers holding their own movie shows.

The Youbou branch will be the first formed through the Victoria club, which hopes to extend across Canada.

Gas Company Announces Plan to Extend Mains

NANAIMO — Vancouver Island Gas Co. Ltd., which completed installation of gas lines and butane distribution plant in Nanaimo early this spring, has announced plans for a $200,000 extension of gas service to all residents within the city boundaries as well as in neighboring Harewood and the newly established industrial subdivision to the north of the city.

Work is expected to start within the next 30 days as soon as engineering plans have been completed and tenders called, and contracts awarded.

About 32 additional miles of pipe will be laid, general manager R. M. Bond said, comprising six-inch, four-inch and two-inch mains.

At present the company is distributing a butane-air mixture to Nanaimo, but when demand justifies the investment involved it will pipe natural gas from the mainland. Mr. Bond told Nanaimo Kiwanis Club.

The company plans to retain its headquarters in Nanaimo and is now investigating the financial feasibility of extending its services to other Vancouver Island communities.

The new building will be ready in three months.

The society is building a home for poundkeeper and inspector Nigel Scott, from funds raised by members.

Wrong Line

NANAIMO — Crossing a double line that shouldn't have been on the road cost Donald Talkington a $20 fine and a 30-day suspension of his driver's licence.

Magistrate Lionel Beevor Potts said: "I can understand your mixup."

The magistrate blamed the highways department for its location of double lines on the route to the CPR terminal.

Mr. Talkington crossed the double line to enter a car lot and was involved in a collision resulting in $600 damage.

He was convicted of driving without due care and attention.

No Support

NANAIMO — One Nanaimo alderman, W. C. McGregor, failed to win support of his colleagues when he recommended that the 20-mile speed limit in force throughout the business district be raised to 30 on Terminal Avenue.

City Engineer Arthur Leonard reluctantly explained to council that police preferred the 20-mile limit as it was easier to get a conviction when drivers exceeded the 30 miles an hour they customarily drive when traversing the route.

Three other aldermen all had a word to say on the subject and all opposed Ald. McGregor's suggestion until Mayor Pete Maffeo cut short the argument by relegating the matter to council in committee.

Ald. George Bryce opposed the increase pointing out that PTAs are concerned about the safety of children at the Pearson bridge crossing on Terminal.

Aid for SPCA

NANAIMO — Nanaimo City Council decided this week that the city will subsidize the SPCA by $100 a month until the new dog pound has been completed.

A. & B. Construction Co. Ltd. received the contract to build the new pound on Old Nanaimo Lakes Road at a price of $3,769, lowest of four bids ranging to $5,750.

The money will be paid for three months to reimburse the society for expense incurred due to delay in completing the pound which was rejected by Northfield residents when it was originally proposed to build it in that area. It is expected that

New Way Relieves Arthritic, Rheumatic Pain Without Pills

Greaseless, odorless cream penetrates painful area, speeds flow of fresh blood, helps drive away pain-causing pressure and congestion.

Toronto, Ont. (Special)—Science has now developed an odorless, greaseless cream that acts in a new way to bring hours and hours of relief from pains of arthritis and rheumatism—without the need of taking pills and other medicines. Rubbed gently into painful areas, this cream penetrates and actually vanishes into the skin. It increases the flow of fresh blood and thus helps drive away pain-causing pressure and congestion. It brings comforting warmth from deep within. Used by doctors in England, France and the U.S.A. this new cream is available without prescription at drug stores everywhere. Ask for InfraRUB. Only $1.39 a large tube. InfraRUB is guaranteed to give comforting relief from arthritis-rheumatism pains or your money back.

Mrs. A. M. Jones Fair's Big Winner

MAYNE ISLAND — Mrs. A. M. Jones was awarded the Foster cup as highest aggregate winner in the annual Mayne Island Fair Saturday.

She picked up most of her points in the cooking and canning divisions of the fair, winning special prizes for the best canned fruit exhibit and amassing the highest number of points in cooking.

Highest number of points in the floral division were won by Mrs. F. Robson, and a special prize for best canned vegetable was taken by Mrs. F. W. Pratt.

Miss L. Underhill won the most points in the domestic science section and was also awarded a special prize.

The fair was opened by Recreation and Conservation Minister Earle C. Westwood.

OLD MIGRANTS
Large-scale immigration of Arabs and Persians into the Zanzibar area off Africa's east coast started in the seventh century.

Thirty-five U.S. states appeared in Mr. Cowling's list to complete the total.

Ontario, Manitoba and Saskatchewan were next with 233, 164 and 130 vehicles, respectively. Every Canadian province and territory was also represented except New Brunswick.

The hall, a seaplane base during the war, was donated to the community by MacMillan & Bloddel for use as a youth centre and community hall.

A movie camera was presented to RCMP officer H. Bonner who leaves Ucluelet at the end of the month to take a new position on Salt Spring Island.

Centennial Safety Drive On

Provincial labor department has its own centennial slogan: "British Columbia, a safer place to celebrate in '58."

Labor Minister Lyle Wicks announced yesterday that his department would award centennial safety certificates to those firms which chalk up safety records before next July 31.

To qualify, the companies must complete a record of consecutive, compensable lost-time, injury-free, man-days worked in excess of a target set out for each class of firm. The standard to be used will be 10,000 accident-free man-days worked in the logging industry.

Although the target number of man-days must be completed sometime between Jan. 1 and July 31, 1958, firms may start counting as soon as they wish.

Awards will be based on the whole record of integrated operating units including production, maintenance and services without exclusion of any working category, said Mr. Wicks.

Application forms for the certificates are being mailed to firms, together with a list of the target man-days for the various classes of industry according to Workmen's Compensation Board ratings.

"By everyone taking an active part in the safety campaign, B.C. will be a safer place to work in as well as a place in which to celebrate 100 years' progress," said the minister.

Bonner 'Astounded' At Prison Interest

Attorney-General Robert Bonner said yesterday that he was "astounded" by the fact that some 3,000 visitors attended an open house at the new Haney penal institution over the weekend.

"It is astounding and gratifying to see that the public is interested in the penal reform program quietly going on in B.C.," said Mr. Bonner.

Need of Probe Still Doubtful

Attorney-General Robert Bonner said yesterday it was still too early to state whether or not a board of reference under Chief Justice Gordon Sloan was necessary to bring in recommendations as to bargaining rights for civil servants.

He added that negotiations between the government and the civil servants were continuing.
